I have to use the CTRL+R shortcuts for resizing windows (via the mouse scroll wheel) and when I hit CTRL+R I get a "hot-key message" that it's a mouse click. While I'm typing this I get a popup saying that I have used the Ctrl+R shortcut to resize a window. Is there a setting in Visual Studio 2010 to turn off these messages and hotkeys? A: Go to Tools > Options > Environment > Keyboard and delete the following: {B973FEC9-EBC3-45C7-81FE-580A470D2E90} Remove any other duplicated keys from the list as well. You can also turn these off in Tools > Options > Environment > Text Editor. A: To disable the shortcut for resizing windows, go to Tools | Options | Environment | Keyboard and uncheck "Using same shortcut as CTRL+R" and "Using same shortcut as ALT+R" Q: Are discrete convolutions point-wise convergent? I am currently writing a proof that an appropriate type of discrete convolution, namely the product with a permutation is weak-* continuous and hence point-wise continuous. The problem is that I don't know if all discrete convolutions are point-wise convergent. If they are, then I need to know whether they are point-wise convergent in L^2 . (This seems to be related to this post, but I am not sure if it can be applied to my problem). A: The answer is 'yes' if the convolution is a Hilbert-Schmidt operator. See this paper: W.E.Boyer, R.C
