, you're not going to get a job. To top it off, they're entertaining. If you love them, I don't see a problem. But in reality, this is where most of the world is in the United States. We're very entertaining; I'm glad I'm living in a society that makes me want to put on a silly hat. People are fun, it's nice. Maybe someday a serious business owner is going to be like, "Hey, I'm not going to let you do that!" I don't think I'm going to get in trouble for it; I'm just a kid. I look at it as harmless, I just think it's funny. I'm amazed that people are being arrested for this stuff. I think, if anything, somebody should use this for comedy. Just the fact that I get to dress up, especially with music playing and people have fun with it—it's a good joke. It's like the '70s all over again. Can you give us a brief timeline of your invention? I saw you put out a video around a year ago and it was just a quick bang. Have you started working on the next one? Yeah, just days ago. I literally made the videos in ten minutes. I was at a garage sale, got a new camera, a cheap one, and I was like, "Hell, I'm going to make a music video." I've been making videos for about eight months now. I've been creating music every day since I started making songs. Every time I do something with the electric guitar I'll make a video of it. That's how I got started. One day, I'm going to get a DJ, but that's going to take years. I'll get a good digital-audio

guy. Who are some of your influences? I like the I-F, the Italian Federation of Electronic Music. I watch a lot of this stuff and the like, the Ministry of Sound DJ house and things like that. I'm a big rock and roll guy. You know, Beatles, Led Zeppelin, Eagles, Stones, Motown, the '70s, the '80s
