GIMP (GNU Image Manipulation Program) GIMP is a free, open-source, cross-platform image manipulation program for Windows, Mac, and Linux. GIMP is an excellent solution to most of the image-editing tasks you're likely to encounter, and while its interface is far more complicated than Photoshop's, GIMP is the only layer-based editing program. It has been a standard of comparison for comparison over the years. You access GIMP from the GIMP homepage at www.gimp.org. As Figure 2-11 shows, it is a smaller, more powerful image-editing program that you can download and run on any computer that supports it. You can also get the program by installing the free GIMP plug-ins, included with GIMP, into any image-editing program. Figure 2-11 GIMP's classic interface GIMP consists of several layers. A layer is a square that you can add, move, or delete. The layers are arranged in a layer stack that you can move around and resize. You can open a new file and add an image to the canvas. You can change the size of the canvas and select an image in the image stack. As you work on the canvas, you can add, move, and delete layers and even change their transparency. GIMP has many powerful tools, including the following: * Lasso tool: Selects paths. * Marquee tool: Grabs

Q: how to retrieve a json content and use it in a jquery ui autocomplete I have this code that returns some elements from a webservice and I need to pass the content of the response. How can I grab this content from the webservice and use it in the autocomplete function? I have this, but it doesn't work as I get undefined in the data: {pagination: {total_pages:, total_results:,}} as the content from the json content is considered undefined. function servicesSearch(service_input, current) { var url = '' + service_input + '/'; $.ajax({ type: "GET", url: url, dataType: "json", success: function(data) { $('#services_search').autocomplete({ source:data }); }, error: function(status,error) { $('#services_search').autocomplete("remove"); window.location.href="servicio"+"?resume&type_service=";

R2D: Robust 2D Map Generation for Virtual Reality - mreiland ====== mreiland Abstract: R2D is a plugin for Unity which simplifies the process of generating 2D maps in a Unity project. A monochrome image is automatically generated from a normal map, and mapped into a tile grid (where each tile is 6×6). The generated image may be randomised or only contain tiles that are visible in your scene. A spherical effect is applied to map edges, which can be configured to be visible or not. Additional effects such as hard shadows can also be applied. R2D can also be used with a prefab object. Key Features: \- Fast 2D map generation (up to 60 FPS) \- Spherical mapping (think "mapping snow") \- Edge padding (up to 30px) \- Randomise map \- Show/hide tiles (visible tiles only) \- Tiled/non-tiled (each tile is 6×6) \- Single or multiple scenes \- Prefab support Pre-requisites: Unity 2017.1 or greater, in which R2D is available via the Unity Asset Store. Installation: 1\. Install the Asset Store 2\. Open the Assets Store 3\. On the search bar, type "R2D" 4\. Click "Install" 5\. Select the "Custom" version 6\. Restart Unity 7\. R2D will be available in the Effector submenu Requires: Unity 2017.1 or greater ------ bradknowles I'd like to see this for video game consoles. Synthesis, characterization and first assembly of chiral C(60) fullerenes with N-heterocyclic carbene. First heterobimetallic N-heterocyclic carbene-catalyzed asymmetric synthesis of chiral C(60) fullerenes from epoxide is described. The regioselectivity of the addition of alkyl groups to epoxide is greatly dependent on the structure of the alkyl groups. The most reactive alkyl group is tert-butyl and the least reactive one is methyl. Based
