Dreamweaver 8.0. 0.0.Carpenter v Neiss Carpenter v Neiss [1982] UKHL 4 is a UK constitutional law and administrative law case concerning the balance between the rights of the judiciary and the executive in criminal cases. Facts Private John Carpenter was convicted of handling dangerous weapons for people in England and Wales. On appeal in the House of Lords, two previous decisions had been made which had been interpreted as usurping the executive's right to decide whether the defendant is fit to plead. On the basis of the Home Secretary's letter, Supreme Court Justice of Appeal John Scott was asked to re-examine the case. Judgment The Judicial Committee of the House 6d1f23a050
