Community About Us and this jquery

$(document).ready(function () { $('#data').on('click', 'li a', function () { $(this).parent().children().each(function () { $(this).slideToggle(); }); }); });
```

When I click on the link on the first or second child li, it works great, but when I click on the first child, it fires the jquery event and click the href for the first child then the second, then the third and so on. What I am trying to do is, when I click on the first child li, it should hide the second and the third then the forth. How can I do that? A: You have to change the line `$(this).parent().children().each(function ()` to `$(this).parent().prev().children().children().each(function ()` because: `$('#data').on('click', 'li a', function () { // second argument from on function must be a function, and it is.`

$(this).parent().children().each(function () { c6a93da74d
