New York Times bestselling author Zachariah Keay, author of "Whitewash", brings you "Under the Covers", a collection of ten stories that features steamy encounters with women who have fallen in love with books more than they have with men. Each romance is the culmination of a series of smart and playful decisions that stretch the boundaries of the relationship between author and reader, and the book, and the reader's imagination. Teresa Teresa, a prolific writer and illustrator of children's books, is sitting at home with her son and husband when she receives a mysterious text. The code is a clue from her publisher, illustrating the details of a mysterious new project, and it's part of a game designed to tease her into writing some of her best work. The first person to send a message to her eyes-only address, meanwhile, is invited to meet in a series of upcoming erotic encounters. She's full of curiosity. After all, she wrote and illustrated the bestselling

"Luna", a book that was turned into a movie, and now she's getting a new one. Kris Kris, an on-and-off-again poker player, will find it difficult to concentrate at work when he's distracted by conversations with a younger woman. A shy librarian who spends hours in the stacks, she's a bit of a bookworm and is enthralled by her current assignment to ghostwrite an erotic series. Kris, who's never been in a serious relationship, begins to wonder whether he's on to a good thing when he takes a second date with her. Danielle After a lifetime of rejection and disappointment, Danielle, an accomplished botanist, is a bit intimidated to find herself on a blind date with a popular but elusive celebrity chef, and the date's going better than she expected. But she's soon learning that, with creativity and imagination, dating can be anything but safe. Ted Since the beginning of his career, Ted, a notoriously picky lover, has turned a skeptical eye to love, paying attention to the long-term. He's in a live-in relationship, but after a night of hot sex, the woman is suddenly in the grip of a case of food poisoning. So he gets a
